From the Division Head: Do You Have a 'Wonder'?

Socrates is credited with saying, "Wisdom begins in wonder." Children's natural curiosity makes learning a joyful journey. Each "wonder" helps a child make sense of his or her world. In the early childhood years, children wonder about scary things, real and make-believe; where things come from; and how things work. Working with their peers, they can explore what they wonder about in greater depth.

Project work in the Primary School gives students the opportunity to dive deep into areas of interest. We wonder together! The beauty of project work is that we never know what direction a project may take, or how long it may last. That is the nature of emergent curriculum.

The benefits of wonder extend beyond building wisdom. According to the article "Awe, the Small Self, and Prosocial Behavior" by Dr. Paul Piff, "Experiencing a sense of awe promotes altruism, loving-kindness, and magnanimous behavior." And awe is "that sense of wonder we feel in the presence of something vast that transcends our understanding of the world." According to Dr. Piff, people commonly experience awe in nature, but also in response to religion, art, and music.

HOW CAN WE ALL SUPPORT WONDER?

Early childhood education expert Ellen Booth Church offers these tips for supporting our children's sense of wonder:

Take time. Wondering takes time and usually happens in an unplanned and spontaneous situation. Be flexible enough to take time away from a planned event to follow children's wondering and creative thinking.

Listen. One of the most important ways you can support children's wonder is to listen carefully. At this stage, children need to express their wonder verbally and will often do this in great detail. Listen to all they have to say.

There is no shortage of curiosity in our program. Next time you're in the Primary School lobby, check out our display of "wonders" to see what our faculty, staff, and students are thinking. We hope you'll take a minute to post your own thoughts. We'd love to know what's on your mind!

All the best,

Amy Whitley, MA
Head of Primary School

Friendly Reminder Regarding Valentine's Day Treats

The following information is located on page 53 of the School Handbook, which can be found in the Parent Portal:

Goodie Bag and Treat Policy

*Primary School students may not give gifts, goodie bags, or treats for any occasion. Students may have food allergies, and gifts of candy and cookies could pose a serious health hazard. In addition, small toys and trinkets in goodie bags can easily become a choking risk. Therefore, goodie bags and gifts—as well as cupcakes, cookies, and other treats—are not allowed. For Valentine's Day parties, cards without candy are preferred; however, if a card has candy attached, the candy will not be consumed at school and will be sent home.

From the Division Head

This past Wednesday was one of the best days I've had in a while. The halls were buzzing with parents and students, smiles were on faces, and it was evident that there was a pep in everyone's step. Nothing makes me happier.

While parent/student/teacher conferences are not always filled with 100 percent joyous information, the spirit of community and collaboration was alive and well. It is our job as educators to be honest and straight-forward with you about your child's strengths and areas of challenge. By respecting each other and working collaboratively, progress will be made.

The administrative team, specialists, and enrichment team hosted a lunch for our conferring teachers, and the positive energy and comradery was exceptional. It was so gratifying to come together as a cohesive, professional team, sharing some downtime together. The teachers left lunch eager to learn and share more about your children during their afternoon conferences.

I often hear that parents do not request meetings or conferences with administration or teachers because they do not want to bother anyone, they feel their issue is not worthy of calling a meeting, or they don't want to be "one of those parents." There could not be anything further from the truth. Your questions, concerns, or thoughts are extremely important to us; we do not want to hear from you only on conference days. These students are your children, but they are also our children.

Everyone who works with your children here at St. Francis cares about them. Partnering with you to do what is best for your child will only benefit them. Call your teachers; send an e-mail to request a meeting; stop in the office. Your teachers want to tell you all about your children! We are all here for you and your children, and we want to work as a community.

Another opportunity to visit with us will be in the Narthex on February 14 following our Ash Wednesday Chapel. The administration and specialists will be there to visit, to answer questions, and to get to know you. Please stop by and say hello!

Mark your calendar for our next Lower School Parent meeting on Thursday, March 1, at 8:15 a.m. We are bringing back Michelle Sacks, who spoke to us last year about Internet safety. Everyone who attended raved about her knowledge and helpful information regarding our children and how to keep them safe. More information will be coming soon, but please put this important meeting on your calendar!

Thank you for being involved in your child's educational experience and allowing us to be part of the journey!

Warmly,

Carol Christ, MEd
Head of Lower School

Middle School

From the Division Head

Happy Sunday, Middle School Families. I hope this finds you all well today.

Thank you to our army of moms who helped decorate this past Friday's "Mardi Gras" dance for grades 6-8. Thanks, as well, to our fifth-grade team for planning and hosting a fun-filled Game Night.

This Wednesday is Valentine's Day, which is a polarizing holiday: We either like it, or we can't stand it. Either way, love is the main theme of the day.

In my high school days, one of my lacrosse coaches (who was also my math teacher) used to ask us at every practice, "What is your job today?" Our response was to be, "To love each other." Through this unique response, my team learned that what we were doing every day at practice—and especially during games—was actually demonstrating our love and care for each other.

A violent yet beautiful sport, lacrosse allows great displays of care and kindness. If Bart was struggling to pick up a groundball in a mass of the other team's players, who were hitting and hacking away at him, then we ran over to the scrum, made the fight even, and tried to win the ball. If our goalie, Will, let one in, then our defense huddled up, said some words of encouragement, and waited for the next face-off. If coach made us run, whether it was for acting like knuckleheads or for strengthening our conditioning, we yelled for each other in support of finishing strong.

I hope the same experiences happen for our students not only on the courts and athletics fields, but also in the classroom and the hallways—not the groundball scrum part, of course!

As singer-songwriter Dan Auerbach says, “Love is the coal that makes this train roll.” Regardless of Valentine’s Day, let’s roll into this week with a lot of love and kindness.

On the Mind, Brain, Education Science research front, our faculty will be consulting research and discussing memorization strategies and retrieval practice in the coming weeks. Exploring ways to teach our students not only to remember, but also to actively call information to mind will strengthen the educational experience for us all. Please click here for more information and useful knowledge.

It’s a beautiful day, and we are Wolves!

Connor Cook, EdD
Head of Middle School
