'Lost Boy of Sudan' to Speak at St. Francis on April 26 and 27

When Salva Dut left his war-torn home with the other “Lost Boys of Sudan” in 1985, he faced an incredible journey of pain, peril ... and promise. Join St. Francis on Thursday, April 26, as we welcome Mr. Dut, who will speak about his lost years and how he found himself through his nonprofit, Water for South Sudan, which today provides lifesaving water wells to the remote villages of his homeland.

A VIP Reception with Mr. Dut will kick off at 6:00 p.m. in the Crum Library. Doors to the Fine Arts Center will then open at 7:00 p.m. for Mr. Dut's talk, which will begin at 7:15 p.m. Tickets are $20 for the VIP Reception and $10 for general admission, and are available only by online purchase here.

Linda Sue Park's New York Times best seller A Long Walk to Water, which recounts Mr. Dut's story of survival, will be available for sale. All proceeds will benefit Water for South Sudan.

Mr. Dut will return to St. Francis the morning of Friday, April 27, to speak to our Middle Schoolers and visiting students from area schools.

From the Division Head

As a parent, you have surely read your share of articles and books filled with advice and guidance on how to support your child in his or her educational journey. Although I have been an educator for 38 years, I still come across a word or term occasionally that leads me to a website search on Google, or to Dictionary.com for a definition.

While I understand the need for some of these terms, I try to guide those I work with to use them sparingly in their writing and conversations, unless they are accompanied by an explanation. In the spirit of demystifying this educational jargon, sometimes referred to as “edu-speak,” I thought it might be useful to explain what some of these commonly used terms mean. With a popular focus on skills that will be needed in future careers, many of these terms also apply to the business world.

Soft Skills: Personal characteristics that enable someone to interact effectively and harmoniously with other people are highly valued skills. These include competence in time management, organization, self-confidence, resilience, problem-solving, flexibility, effective communication, teamwork, and other interpersonal skills.

Executive Functioning Skills: The processes that enable us to plan, focus, organize, prioritize, remember instructions, get started, and accomplish tasks.

Self-regulation: The ability to focus attention, control emotions, and manage behaviors and feelings.

Multiple Intelligences: A theory that proposes eight different types of intelligence: linguistic, logical-mathematical, spatial, bodily-kinesthetic, musical, interpersonal, intrapersonal, and naturalist. This theory, known as the Multiple Intelligences Theory, was proposed by Howard Gardner. It supports the belief that we can be “smart” in many different ways.

Differentiated Instruction: A method used to reach students with different learning styles. Each student learns best in his or her own way, and differentiated instruction means that the teacher designs instruction that will suit each individual student.

Working Memory: The ability to store and manage information in one's mind for a short period of time. This type of memory is important in knowing the steps necessary to solve a math problem, the rules of a game, and multistep directions.

Higher-Order Thinking/Critical Thinking Skills: A sought-after skill set that does not depend on rote learning or memorization of facts. It is the ability to take in information, analyze data, test hypotheses, compare findings, draw conclusions, answer questions, and solve problems that may have more than one right answer.

Emergent Curriculum: An approach to curriculum that focuses on teachers being attuned to students' interests and creating opportunities for learning. Collaboration, active learning experiences, and flexibility are evident in this approach.

Project-Based Learning/Project-Approach Learning: A project is the in-depth identification and study of a real-world problem. The process, journey, and discovery that students engage in while completing the project are valued rather than the solution or conclusion. Projects develop from students' interests and ideas, and are supported by the teacher, who is also a researcher in the process.

Growth Mindset: A term developed by Carol Dweck, "growth mindset" refers to the idea that basic abilities and brain functions can be improved with dedication and perseverance. Learners with a growth mindset see challenges as opportunities for problem-solving and progress. Someone who is not motivated to continue to grow, or who believes that talent is fixed and unchangeable, is said to have a "fixed mindset."

Social-Emotional Learning: This framework is designed to cultivate qualities like empathy, emotional intelligence, self-awareness, and responsible decision-making.

Whole-Child Learning: Educating the "whole child" means that a program recognizes and values all aspects of a child's development: cognitive, social, emotional, physical, and spiritual. Attention is given to planning experiences that support children in every domain of development.

In our work with families, our goal is to communicate effectively for the benefit of your child. We want each child to achieve his or her personal best, and we appreciate the opportunity to be a part of your child's growth at St. Francis.

All the best,

Amy Whitley, MA
Head of Primary School

Lower School

From the Division Head

I hope everyone had a relaxing weekend!

We had a wonderful meeting on the South Campus for our Primary II parents. “Looking Forward: Life in Lower School” was the topic, as we want to get our new parents plugged in quickly! From school administrators and kindergarten teachers to instructional specialists and Parents Association representatives, presenters from all areas shared their roles and offered ways to get involved. We realize that moving to an entirely new campus is a big shift! I know you all will join us in welcoming our new friends to the Main Campus next school year!

As you know, we are a growth mindset–focused school, and we are constantly looking for ways to promote growth mindsets in everyone on campus, from students to faculty.

In her letter to Primary School parents, above, Head of Primary School Amy Whitley offers the following excellent definition of “growth mindset”:

“A term developed by Carol Dweck, ‘growth mindset’ refers to the idea that basic abilities and brain functions can be improved with dedication and perseverance. Learners with a growth mindset see challenges as opportunities for problem-solving and progress. Someone who is not motivated to continue to grow, or who believes that talent is fixed and unchangeable, is said to have a ‘fixed mindset.’”

I have written before about the importance of the language we use with children, especially praise. I wanted to revisit this important topic, as the type of praise we give our children has incredible potential to promote a fixed or a growth mindset, which can be set for life.

Click here to watch a short video on the topic, and here for a parent's cheat sheet on praising your kiddos.

Know that we are committed to working in the classroom to utilize best practices in teacher language. We love collaborating with you on this journey!

Have a fabulous week!

Cheers,

Carol Christ, MEd
Head of Lower School

Middle School

From the Division Head

Happy Sunday, Middle School Families. I hope this finds you all well today.

I'm keeping it short this week. On the Mind, Brain, and Education Science front, please see this website about the science of learning, brought to you by two cognitive psychology scientists. I encourage you to further explore this informative resource, as well. (Most recently, they featured this interesting article about note-taking.)

Please broach the topics of note-taking and study skills with your students, especially as we get closer to final assessments. Our faculty and staff continue to employ best practices informed by Mind, Brain, and Education Science research, so please feel free to engage them in conversation about their classes.

It's a beautiful day, and we are Wolves!

Sincerely,

Connor Cook, EdD
Head of Middle School

School Starts Later on Monday, April 16

We have late arrival on Monday, April 16. Students will begin the school day at 9:00 a.m.

Social Dance Opportunity: Registration Is April 19

Online registration for Dance Club 2024 will be held on Thursday, April 19, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Dance Club provides a social dance opportunity for boys and girls entering seventh grade in fall 2018. It includes six dance lessons (think waltz, fox-trot, tango, etc.) held on certain Sundays in fall 2018. Each lesson will last one hour and 15 minutes.

In addition to students from St. Francis, our dance club group comprises students from the following six schools: Memorial Middle School, Spring Branch Middle School, Duchesne Academy of the Sacred Heart, The Regis School of the Sacred Heart, St. Cecilia Catholic School, and St. Michael Catholic School. [Note: There are other dance club groups around town based on school, but this is ours.] Each current sixth-grade parent should have already received a packet in the mail with exact dates, dues, venue, and other details.

Space is limited to the first 450 registrants from the seven participating schools—so not everyone who wants to participate will be able to do so. On April 19, participants will register here once registration opens at 9:00 a.m. If you aren't able to secure a spot for your child, it is recommended that you register for the wait-list. The cost for joining the wait-list is $25. If registration is later confirmed, the balance of the dues will be charged to your card at that time.

Parents will be able to sign up to chaperone the dance classes, and dads are especially welcome to attend! More on that later.

Questions may be directed to Lorie Herod or Amy Walton.

KOBI Photo Contest: Entries Due April 20

For the past few years, we have honored the memory of Kobi Pickett

(daughter of former SFES second-grade teacher Stephanie Pickett) by hosting a very special photography contest and show. Kobi had a passion for the visual arts—especially for photography and for creating beautiful designs based on bible verses.

The theme of this year's Keep on Being Incredible (KOBI) Photo Contest is "strength," which is something we've all had to rely heavily on this year due to Hurricane Harvey. All Middle School students are invited to participate. Entries are due by Friday, April 20, and will be on display April 30-May 7.

For more information about the contest, please click here. The contest entry form is available here.

Questions? Please e-mail Mrs. Chandler.
