Presidents' Day Now a School Day

From the Division Head

We have gotten very positive feedback from you this year on our Tadpoles communication system. The ability to send photos and messages about our program and keep you informed of events and activities has been beneficial for us, too.

Please be watching for an addition to this communication. Beginning this week, you will receive a Tadpole message from one of your child's enrichment teachers on a weekly rotation basis. Music, Motor, Drama, and Spanish enhance the experience in the Primary School and give children additional opportunities to be challenged.

Loris Malaguzzi, credited with inspiring the famous schools in Reggio, Italy, believed that children have 100 languages. What he meant by this was that verbal skills are not the only way children communicate and learn. They discover and make sense of their world in so many ways. They sing, dance, move, draw, sculpt, pretend, build, paint, and express themselves in at least 100 ways.

I hope you enjoy receiving this additional feedback from our enrichment teachers about the robust learning opportunities happening in the Primary School each day. Please let us know if you have questions.

All the best,

Amy Whitley, MA
Head of Primary School

Friendly Reminder Regarding Valentine's Day Treats

The following information is located on page 53 of the School Handbook, which can we found in the Parent Portal:

Goodie Bag and Treat Policy

*Primary School students may not give gifts, goodie bags, or treats for any occasion. Students may have food allergies, and gifts of candy and cookies could pose a serious health hazard. In addition, small toys and trinkets in goodie bags can easily become a choking risk. Therefore, goodie bags and gifts—as well as cupcakes, cookies, and other treats—are not allowed. For Valentine’s Day parties, cards without candy are preferred; however, if a card has candy attached, the candy will not be consumed at school and will be sent home.

From the Division Head

This week, I want to highlight a foundational professional-development opportunity in which most of our teachers have had the privilege of participating.

As you know, we follow a balanced literacy approach that encompasses reading, writing, word work, and grammar instruction. Most independent schools and excellent public-school districts have utilized this approach for over 15 years.

A cornerstone of balanced literacy is Reading & Writing Workshop. This approach was founded at Teachers College, Columbia University in New York City over 30 years ago.

- The mission of the Teachers College Reading and Writing Project is to help young people become avid and skilled readers, writers, and inquirers.

- This goal is accomplished through research, curriculum development, and working shoulder-to-shoulder with students, teachers, and school leaders.
- The organization has developed state-of-the-art tools and methods for teaching reading and writing, for using performance assessments and learning progressions to accelerate advancement, and for literacy-rich content area instruction.
- Thousands of teachers regard the Teachers College Reading and Writing Project as a continual source of professional renewal and education.
- Over the past three years, all of our teachers have applied to both the Summer Institute on the Teaching of Reading and the Summer Institute on the Teaching of Writing. This training is highly sought-after from schools all over the world; therefore, only three to five of our teachers have been admitted each summer due to the programs' popularity and enrollment limitations.
- Ten of our 15 language arts teachers have attended either the reading or writing institutes, and three new teachers hired over the past three years already had this amazing training and were chosen in part due to their commitment to and experience with this approach. Applications for the institutes open in late February, and again, we have seven teachers applying with fingers crossed!
- There are also institutes that provide instructional coaches and administrators with training to bring back to campuses, ultimately to impact student learning through ongoing teacher growth and reflection. Three of our faculty have attended these institutes and have helped to further develop the teachers in-house with their current students. Both teachers and students benefit from this work.

We are committed to practicing consistent, research-based instructional approaches that build from grade level to grade level, as this promotes an optimal learning environment for our students. The Teachers College Reading and Writing Project is just one way we accomplish this unique goal.

To read a few quotes from faculty whose crafts have been impacted by these institutes, please click here.

Warmly,

Carol Christ, MEd
Head of Lower School

Middle School

From the Division Head

Happy Sunday, Middle School families. I hope this finds all of you well today.

Thanks to National Junior Honor Society officers and members, Dr. Bedard, and Mrs. MacMurtrie for hosting a great Geography Bee this past week. Congratulations to Dwight Solano for winning the competition! Thanks, as well, to our eighth-grade Howlers squad, along with Athletics Council, Ms. Crummel, and Mrs. Krueger for hosting a fun Winter Pep Rally—our students and teachers showed some wonderful school spirit.

Another highlight of last week was following the leadership of our Head of Middle School for the Day, Mr. Gunn Lamba—I stepped down, and Mr. Lamba stepped right up and took care of business, without missing a beat.

Although this week's academic schedule is normal, the work going on behind the scenes is not. Our teachers are in the process of consulting Mind, Brain, and Education Science research topics in order to begin some field research and data collection of their own. Topics include using feedback, formative assessments, metacognition, memorization strategies, and peer tutoring; providing self-reflection time and student choice; building growth mindset; teaching executive functioning skills; integrating visual and performing arts to non-arts classes for knowledge transfer; using play constructively and STEM learning practices; enhancing student motivation and social-emotional learning; and more.

Our wonderful faculty are students of their craft; they are researchers who are committed to improving the quality of our teaching and helping students thrive in their learning.

If you are interested in consulting one of our MBES research databases, please take a look at Digital Promise.

Two hot topics in education news right now—especially with adolescents—are screen usage and sleep, and I recently read some research about these important issues:

- Screen usage
- Sleep (reading just the abstract of the journal article helps)

I hope that our students will continue to use technology with moderation and practice good decision-making. We all want our young people to build in vital rest time each day.

I'm looking forward to a busy, productive, and fun week.

It's a beautiful day, and we are Wolves!

Connor Cook, EdD
Head of Middle School

Upper School

Settle to Lead the Wolves on the Diamond

St. Francis Episcopal School is proud to announce Michael Settle as the Upper School head baseball coach. Settle joins Head Girls Volleyball Coach Cydryce McMillian and Head Football Coach Charles McMillian on the Upper School coaching staff.

A member of the St. Francis family since 2010, Settle currently serves as the director of physical education and assistant director of Middle School athletics, in addition to serving as head Middle School cross country coach and head Middle School baseball coach. Settle will continue to oversee the Middle School baseball program as he starts building the Upper School program this fall.

“Coach Settle has a true passion for both St. Francis and the game of baseball,” said T. Riley, St. Francis’s director of athletics and wellness. “He is the ideal person to lead, build, and grow the Upper School baseball program from the ground up. I look forward to seeing him in action on the field with our future Upper School players.”

Settle brings to the role nearly 20 years of experience coaching baseball, having worked at the youth, middle school, upper school, college, and international club/professional levels. His previous coaching roles included varsity baseball at All Saints’ Episcopal School in Fort Worth and college ball at both Wheaton College and Texas Christian University (TCU). In 2010, he founded the St. Francis Episcopal School baseball program.

Settle credits the game of baseball with bringing him to a career in education.

“I am passionate about helping students and athletes develop in the areas of faith, courage, and grit,” he said. “I believe that coaches and educators are blessed with an inherent platform, and the positive impact we can have on a child’s life is limitless.”

Settle’s experience with baseball isn’t limited to coaching it. He was a celebrated player at TCU, where he participated in two All-Conference campaigns; earned Conference Player of the Week recognition on multiple occasions; and received the Matt Carpenter Most Valuable Player Award, the Bryan Holaday Outstanding Defensive Player Award, and the Lou Gehrig Award for RBI Leader. He was also selected to the All-Tournament Team while playing in the Shriners Hospitals for Children College Classic at Minute Maid Park.

Following his collegiate days, Settle spent the next few years travelling the nation and the world playing professional baseball.

“These learning experiences serve as fuel in my tank,” he said. “My successes are nice, but the battle scars that I have earned are what I use when striving to make a difference in a student-athlete’s life. I will do everything in my power to prepare our players to be confident competitors who thrive under the inevitable pressures of competition.”

Settle holds a bachelor’s degree in psychology from TCU and is a member of the American Baseball Coaches Association; the European Baseball Coaches Association; the Professional Baseball Players Association; the Texas Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance; and the Texas High School Baseball Coaches Association. In his free time, he enjoys escaping to the mountains and spending time with his wife and three children.
