October Virtue of the Month: Scholarship

During the month of October, the St. Francis community is focusing on the virtue of scholarship. This week, as a family, play the alphabet game: For each letter, name a subject that you could learn more about. (For example, “a” for “antiques”; “b” for “books”; “c” for “cats”; etc.)

Primary School

From the Assistant Division Head

Last school year, our faculty took on the task of updating our student assessment instrument, the Learning Continuum. Our shared goal was to give parents a complete and accurate picture of how their child is progressing in both the fall and spring. Over the course of eight months, Primary School teachers, administrators, and Lower School Literacy Specialist Ashley Stephenson analyzed and updated three components of the Learning Continuum.

Our Reggio-inspired approach allows children to express themselves in nearly infinite ways, so our first task was to ensure that all skills on the Learning Continuum were developmentally appropriate for our students. Teachers used classroom documentation to identify age-appropriate developmental growth according to current early childhood research.

Once appropriate skills were identified and agreed upon, our next task was to ensure that the skills on the Learning Continuum followed a developmentally appropriate progression from year to year. During the 2018–19 school year, we worked with the kindergarten teachers to align our Primary II social/emotional, math, and literacy skills with kindergarten skills in the same areas.

Our final task was to ensure the Learning Continuum was formatted and written using language that parents understand. The major content areas are the same, but the skills within have been updated. For each skill, a rating is now given to indicate where the student is working on a daily basis. A descriptive paragraph about your child’s social and academic development and goals is also included. This provides more details about your child as a member of their classroom environment, including their academic and social strengths and opportunities for growth.

We hope that you find the updated Learning Continuum to be an informative reflection of your child's progress, strengths, and goal areas. Your child's teacher is looking forward to reviewing and discussing your child's Learning Continuum with you at parent-teacher conferences on Thursday, October 31. Remember, there will be no school on that day so that teachers can meet with every child's parents.

Sincerely,

Clifton Walker, MEd
Assistant Head of Primary School

Hearing and Vision Screenings Scheduled for Tuesday

St. Francis will be offering vision and hearing screenings for students who have turned 4 years old by September 1, 2019. Screenings will be provided on Tuesday, October 22.

- State-certified screeners conduct the screenings during school hours.
- A copy of the results is provided for school files. Students who have not passed a screening will receive a referral form for follow-up with a physician or specialist.

- We do not refer to the screening as a "test." Please help us by doing the same. The teachers will explain the process to our students, and they will discover that they are playing two games with the screeners.

Lower School

From the Division Head

I hope you had an Astros-filled weekend! Coming together to celebrate our team is a wonderful way for children to see what “community” truly means. While Houstonians are different in many ways, coming together for a cause allows everyone to put aside differences and enjoy one another.

This week, I wanted to tell you about some of our faculty’s recent professional development activities. Our division goal is to incorporate more opportunities for our students to engage in higher-level thinking skills through creativity, so we have been digging deeply into what this actually looks like in the classroom. In our meetings, we have been reviewing the American Psychological Association video Creativity in the Classroom. (Click here to watch it.)

There are six sections, each with amazing themes, and they have sparked rich discussions as to how these ideas can be used in our instruction and programming. It is so invigorating to hear the teachers sharing, exploring, and learning together. Below are a few takeaways related to developing students’ creativity in the classroom:

- Create a compassionate, accepting environment.
- Be present, and validate the students’ ideas.
- Encourage the process, not products. Have a growth mindset.
- Reword assignments using verbs such as “design,” “imagine,” or “suppose.”
- Protect and promote intrinsic motivation.
- Make it clear that creative thinking requires effort.

As you can see, so many of these ideas go along with our core beliefs surrounding the importance of providing a student-centered, inquiry-based, engaging, and interdisciplinary program full of play, movement, and time for exploration. That said, we know we can always learn and improve our craft based on current research and new pedagogical information.

If you see one of your child's teachers, give them a big thank-you for their deep commitment to being a lifelong learner!

Have a wonderful week!

Carol R. Christ, MEd
Head of Lower School

Middle School

From the Division Head

Dr. Crystal Collier was on campus last week to talk with parents and students about emerging understandings related to vape products and the effects of vaping. Her presentation was educational, engaging, and relevant to student and adult learners. Dr. Collier challenged audience members to think critically about the marketing strategies of e-cigarette companies; she shared insights about the effects of vaporized oils, like propylene glycol, on lung tissue; and she offered strategies for how adults can engage with kids about vaping. We appreciate Dr. Collier's partnership in the education of our students and thank her for sharing her time and expertise.

In case you missed the event, you can click here to view Dr. Collier's complete presentation. I hope you learn something new as you watch. And, if you have the opportunity, I encourage you to join me in offering a special “thank-you” to our counseling and student support duo, Dr. Laurie Curtis and Mr. Ted Lakoski, for their efforts in organizing these presentations.

On behalf of the Middle School faculty and staff, thank you for your partnership with us. We value and appreciate the ability to work with you and your kids. Best wishes for a great week ahead!

Best regards,

Chris Bertha, MEd

Upper School

From the Division Head

Last week, our girls' volleyball and coed cross-country teams celebrated the end of a very successful fall athletics season. When you have the opportunity, please join me in congratulating Loure Dews-Gray, Krystal Polk, Jamie Platt, and Brooke Dawson. Our students, families, and faculty are so fortunate to work with such thoughtful, dedicated, and inspiring coaches. Thank you, coaches!

On the academic front, students and parents received narrative comments from all faculty on Thursday evening. If you haven't already done so, I encourage you to take a few minutes to discuss common themes across course comments. What are some accomplishments to celebrate and what are some areas in need of more attention or a different approach? You might talk with your child about setting a specific, achievable goal for the upcoming week (such as attending a particular teacher's tutorial session, completing homework assignments far away from the distracting temptation of the cell phone, or getting an extra hour of sleep).

Please remember to encourage your children to schedule a meeting with their teachers when they have questions or need additional assistance with anything from organizational and study strategies to guided practice.

The week ahead will be simultaneously exhausting and exhilarating with dress rehearsals and a performance weekend. Please pace yourselves, take deep breaths, and remember to ask for help when you need it. Finally, enjoy the experience—you've all (students and parents) earned it! Please also note that Monday, October 28, is a 10:00 a.m. late start for the Upper School. I will be here for any students who need to arrive at the regular time.

Have a great week!

Sincerely,

Cara Henderson, EdD
Head of Upper School

Join Us for 'Habits of a Healthy Marriage'

In the four-lesson seminar “Habits of a Healthy Marriage,” pastor, counselor, and best-selling author Dr. Paul David Tripp will show you how to improve your marriage by implementing healthy habits and eliminating toxic habits.

In this brand-new series, Dr. Tripp will show you how to:

1. Develop good habits;
2. Pull weeds and plant seeds;
3. Deal with your differences; and
4. Protect your marriage with prayer.

The series will run November 3, 10, 17, and 24 at 10:00 a.m. in the Hogan Board Room.
