News for the Week of December 1

Introducing Our New Uniform Provider

As you know, we have been exploring our uniform options for the 2020–21 school year and have met with several uniform providers in search of the right fit for our St. Francis families. We knew we needed a supplier with a physical storefront to benefit parents, and we also took a serious look at supply chain and forecasting, manufacturing capability, and cost.

After careful consideration, we have selected a new provider with a reputation for excellent quality, value, and customer satisfaction: DENNIS Uniform.

We expect the transition to be very easy. As we work through the details, we'll be sending out more information regarding ordering and division-specific offerings (although requirements are not expected to change).

Look for additional updates soon!

Now Delivering Letters to Santa

From now until Christmas, all of our St. Francis families are invited to drop letters to Santa in the special red mailboxes on both campuses. It's the fastest service around, with direct delivery to the North Pole ... guaranteed!

A Note from the Head of School

As the holidays approach, I wanted to provide you with some guidance ahead of any technology purchases you may be considering for your child, especially those families with students currently in grades 5, 6, and 7. As part of our strategic plan, St. Francis 2025, we have embarked on a one-to-one technology initiative for students in kindergarten through grade 12.

A one-to-one technology program will not only enhance our students' access to research, but it will also help them build autonomy, independence, and healthy digital habits from an early age.

For the 2020-21 school year, Middle School students in grades 6 and 7 will purchase an Apple Macbook Air Computer. This laptop will include a case along with a 3-year warranty and all school-supported software. Students in grade 8 will have the option to purchase this for the 2020-21 school year as well. Students will keep this computer for use at school and at home, and St. Francis will provide training for proper use. While there will be a fee for this computer, thanks to our relationship and purchase volume with Apple, we are able to pass along some cost savings and the opportunity for families to purchase this package on a school designated "tax-free" day.

We look forward to providing more information in January 2020. Our Technology Office and Middle School Administration will also be available at that time to answer any questions you may have. Thank you for your support and for partnering with us in your child's education.

Head of School

December Virtue of the Month: Faith

From the Primary II Team (Cont'd)

Last week, we talked about the fact that game-playing brings out lots of big emotions in children, and we explored how educators and parents can help them process those feelings. Today, we want to continue the conversation on how to help children learn to play fairly and win graciously with a look at another component of game-playing: taking turns.

When you see your children are frustrated with one another, assume a “no one is wrong” mindset as you approach the situation in a calm, curious, and collaborative way. The frustrated child that is clenching the toy isn’t wrong. And the other child who wants the toy isn’t in the wrong, either. They’re just not problem-solving appropriately.

Help children learn by explaining, “John has the ball, and it seems like you want to play with that same ball. You are frustrated. Hmm. You could say, ‘I’d like a turn next!’” Have the child attempt that language in whatever way they can. Then say to the other child, “You can say, ‘Here you go!’ or you could say, ‘Wait a minute, I’m still playing!’”

This is such a complex topic. We should remind our children that when we take turns, it feels frustrating, but it also makes other friends happy so that they will want to play with us again. It’s important to reiterate that a game is only fun when everyone gets a turn. Sometimes we have to wait. Talk about the times in your own life when it’s been hard to wait. This lays a strong foundation for establishing patience in young children.

As a parent, our first inclination while playing games with our children is to make them feel good through winning. However, research has shown that letting our children win prevents the development of some skills. Losing can help children find joy in playing the game, whereas they might otherwise focus only on the competitive aspects of it. They build empathy, coping skills, self-confidence, and self-control as they gain the ability to identify with others who are going through loss. It nurtures their ability to show more compassion and empathy to someone who failed in something.

These little losses in family games help your child see that there will be times in life when we encounter challenges and even struggle, but that perseverance through these times makes us stronger. Losing with grace helps children learn that they cannot always win or be the best at everything. These coping skills will help our children become better sports when winning and losing. Allowing your child to experience loss shows them that the goal is not to win, but to have fun with the activity. Putting the importance on the game and spending time as a family should be the main aims of family game time.

Sincerely,

Brian Dominick, Emily Hughes, and Janene Owens

Lower School

From the Division Head

I hope you had a wonderful Thanksgiving holiday with friends and family!

Everyone in Lower School had great fun hosting our grandparents and special friends. Every year, this day brings back so many fond memories for me, as my boys were blessed to have four grandparents who attended all of their school Grandparents Days. It was such a special time, and their grandparents still display the pictures and treats the boys made for them. I thought you might enjoy reading about what your children did for their special guests, in addition to attending Chapel and the Fall Book Fair together:

- Kindergarteners painted wooden picture frames that they finished decorating with their grandparents. The frame has a picture of the student holding a sign that they wrote saying, “I love my Grandma & Grandpa” (or whatever their special names for their grandparents are). Along with decorating the frames, the students performed a short song, wrote a book with their grandparents, completed a “roll and add” interview, did a counting-to-100 activity, took pictures at the photo booth with props, and read books, if time permitted. They were busy!

- In first grade, the kiddos made flower arrangements to share and illustrated a pendant with a special message for their grandparent. They interviewed their grandparents to find out what life was like for them growing up and talked about special memories. Visitors enjoyed playing Work Places math games with their grandchild.
- In second grade, students read books from their book bags and shared their written book review. Additionally, they solved logical thinking puzzles and presented their grandparents with a word cloud they made on their iPads. Finally, they shared a heartfelt letter written to their grandparents.
- Third graders had a bookmark checklist of activities and completed a mystery activity in humanities. In math, they played Work Places; and in STEAM, they helped their grandparents take a selfie and post it to Seesaw. They presented each grandparent with a special ornament they had made for them.
- In fourth grade, the students showed their grandparents a craft they made with sentence starters ("I love when you..."; "You are so..."). Then they interviewed their grandparents and showed them their portfolios. They also took them to the other classrooms, where they showed them their math and STEAM notebooks and played both math Work Places and a game they coded. In humanities, students showed grandparents their reading notebook and completed a Thanksgiving Mad Lib.

You would have been so proud of your children for being gracious hosts and for creating special memories for all!

Have a great week!

Carol Christ, MEd
Head of Lower School

This Tuesday: Learn How Technology Affects Our Students

Technology is shaping how our children's brains develop—with positive and negative effects. More children and teens are suffering from depression and anxiety now than at any other time in our history due to too much screen time.

Join us this Tuesday, December 3, at 1:30 p.m. in the HBR when Dr. Crystal Collier will present to parents in a one-hour program that elucidates how screen exposure affects mood, learning, memory, sleep, and relationships. In addition, St. Francis Head of Technology Steve Eisenberg will be on hand to give parents step-by-step instructions on how to set up screen limits on iPhones and iPads.

St. Nicholas Toy Ingathering: December 2–6

Please bring a new, unwrapped toy for the St. Nicholas Toy Ingathering, which will be held the week after Thanksgiving—from Monday, December 2, through Friday, December 6—and make the season a little more joyful for others in the Houston community. Donations benefit Toys for Tots. Students will keep donated toys in their classrooms until the toys are picked up by Santa and the Village Fire Department on December 6.

Middle School

From the Division Head

A week of quality time spent with family and friends is the perfect time to “step back” and gain perspective. In my musings about life, love, and work, I thought a great deal about St. Francis and my profound gratitude to be a part of our incredible community. There is much to be thankful for here, but I would like to take this time to share my gratitude for you, our parent community.

In the days leading up to the break, I had the opportunity to sit with a group of parents for our first Middle School Coffee of 2019–20. Both during the gathering and afterward, I felt a strong sense of gratitude for the participation and partnership of our group. It is a blessing to be part of a school where the parent community is engaged and interested in how our school works. We talked about institutional culture, curriculum, scheduling, philosophy, and cognitive science. In our exchange, we asked one another questions, and we both gave and received candid feedback. Put simply, the meeting was awesome and indicative of the strength of our parent community.

I am also grateful for all of the other interactions I have had with parents this year. I appreciate your calls, e-mails, constructive feedback, and messages of support for our teachers.

I hope you will be able to join us for our next MS Coffee in January. Details will be provided in our upcoming Wolf Watch newsletters. Thank you for your partnership and dedication to your children and our school!

With gratitude and appreciation,

Chris Bertha, MEd
Head of Middle School

Please Note: Handbook Reminders

OUTERWEAR

Now that the weather has turned cooler, hoodies and jackets have become a part of daily wear. Please remember that the students are to wear St. Francis hoodies and jackets while inside during the school day. When outside of the school, students may wear heavier jackets, and those do not have to be St. Francis wear.

ELECTRONICS

Wearable electronics, Apple Watches, and any other wearable device that acts as a phone are not allowed on campus. If a student is seen wearing one, it will be confiscated and returned to the student at a later time. Phones are not to be used during school hours, even at the lockers. If a student is found using his or her phone during school hours, it will be confiscated and returned to the student at a later time.

From the Division Head

I hope that you and your families had a wonderful Thanksgiving break filled with just the right balance of rest and play. While Thanksgiving is the traditional time to express our gratitude to family and friends, research shows that developing a year-round gratitude practice correlates with leading healthier, happier lives. If you have two minutes, I encourage you to watch this video alongside your teenage child. You might even consider making time as a family to write and share a letter expressing gratitude to a teacher, friend, or relative who has made a big impact in your life.

We have a busy week ahead as we officially begin our second trimester in the Upper School.

- We'll be traveling to the Main Campus on Wednesday, December 4, for our MS/US St. Nicholas Eucharist Chapel.
- We're also welcoming back our friends from The Fontaine Center this week. On Thursday, December 5, Liz Prince and Kelly Truesdell will be working with student groups to discuss wellness skills and to complete a self-care activity.
- We hope you'll consider joining Liz and Kelly on Thursday from noon to 1:00 p.m. in the Andrews House for the US Parent Lunch & Learn discussion on "failing up" and supporting students from a wellness perspective. Please be sure to RSVP to Cathleen Flaniken by noon on Tuesday, December 3, so that we will have an accurate count for our lunch order.

Happy December! Have a great week!
