Thank you for all you continue to do, St. Francis.

Sincerely,

Steve Lovejoy, MEd
Head of School

Primary School

From the Division Head

I hope that your Thanksgiving break was filled with safe reconnection with extended family and friends, rest, and laughs. The pandemic has made me, and I'm sure many of you, grateful for the basic things in life. I would like to share with you three things for which I am grateful:

1. Strong, capable, and resilient Primary School students. In light of the pandemic changing the way we educate children, our students have managed to make the best of the new normal. It has been such a blessing having children back on campus, slowly returning to our typical St. Francis Primary School experience. Our students have learned to wear masks, socially distance themselves, and wash their hands routinely with ease.
2. Primary School teachers and staff who have the skill set, compassion, and perseverance to manage both in-person and remote learning. I am honored to work among the talented and creative professionals here at St. Francis Episcopal School. Our chaplains, sextons, teachers, staff, and administrators have worked tirelessly to pivot as the pandemic has quickly and drastically changed how we educate children.
3. Parents who support our efforts in educating their children. Thank you for being patient and supportive as we navigate this experience together. We are grateful for our partnership with you.

Sincerely,

Clifton Walker, MEd
Head of Primary School

Lower School

From the Division Head

I hope your week was filled with lots of turkey, friends, and family—well, not too many friends and family!

These past few months have been quite a journey. This is an extraordinary time, and we have all been presented with unique situations and decision-making as things constantly change around us. We appreciate your flexibility and cooperation a great deal.

SWITCHING BETWEEN LEARNING SCENARIOS

We all want what is best for our community, especially for our children. However, we have encountered a slight hiccup with families switching between learning scenarios.

We want everyone to be in the scenario with which they feel most comfortable, so we need to review an important policy regarding our learning scenarios.

As stated in the re-entry plan sent in August, if you choose to go to remote learning, you must do so for at least two weeks. When you are ready for your child to return, please let the division office know at least two days in advance. We keep a spreadsheet of remote learners, which includes the length of time they will be away from campus. The teachers use this information to provide materials for pickup, and they need the two-day notice of return to prepare for your child's re-entry.

In Lower School, students need hands-on and differentiated materials for learning to happen. The teachers (academic, enrichment, and PE) spend quite a bit of time gathering school materials for students who choose to work remotely. These materials include iPads, chargers, journals, leveled readers, math manipulatives, paperwork, games, STEAM labs, and more. Classroom teachers then coordinate with the enrichment and PE teachers to get everything packaged and ready for pickup.

By maintaining the minimum two-week period, the teachers are better able to keep track of the instructional needs of both our in-class and remote learners. When students return from remote learning without advance notice, teachers may not have the necessary materials for them in the classroom. This can be highly disruptive to the learning process for both students and teachers.

Our priority is to foster a seamless transition and to create the most efficient, organized, and enriched learning environment that we can during this challenging time.

If you must switch to remote learning due to anything related to COVID-19, your child's length of time at home will be determined by our school nurses. We will do everything possible to accommodate your situation and get materials to you as quickly as possible.

In addition, as mentioned in several previous Wolf Watch articles, your child may remote into classes after being out for two days with an illness that is not COVID-19 related. If your child is ill for a day or two, please do not request to remote in, as being in the class remotely with no materials is not very productive for young learners. The teachers will get your child caught up when he or she is feeling better.

We really appreciate your help and cooperation with these processes, as we want teaching and learning to be as productive as possible for everyone.

WELCOME, MS. DYE!

Finally, I'd like to let you know that Elli Tennant, our beloved LS art teacher, has decided she needs to focus her energies on her family, and she will not be returning to St. Francis. Kim Trippon has been our long-term art substitute since the beginning of the school year, and we are so indebted to her for her tireless efforts to bring fun, creative arts projects to your children.

I am happy to announce that we have hired a permanent art teacher for Lower School. Ms. Margie Dye will be joining our faculty tomorrow, Monday, November 30. She will be with us part-time this week, learning the lay of the land and shadowing Ms. Trippon in order to get to know your children and our routines. She will begin full-time teaching on Monday, December 7.

She is a St. Francis alumna—a “lifer,” in fact—who then attended Episcopal High School. She earned her BA in studio art from St. Edward's University and her master's in art education from Texas Tech. Her experience is vast. She has taught lower school students in public and private schools, and has also worked in several summer art camps and studios in both Colorado and Texas. Her most recent job was with HISD, where she taught first grade and art to remote learners in their homes.

Her unique experience of being a classroom teacher, as well as an art teacher, will be amazingly beneficial as she transitions to Lower School art. Please join me in welcoming her to our community and in showering gratitude on Ms. Trippon for holding the “art fort” down this semester!

I look forward to a fun-filled week full of learning!

Cheers,

Carol Christ, MEd
Head of Lower School

Middle School

From the Division Head

I hope this finds you relaxing and enjoying the final day of Thanksgiving break. I have appreciated receiving feedback on our updated five-day schedule and am happy to report a general consensus that our schedule has been well-received by students and faculty. Changing a schedule during a school year can be very challenging, and I applaud our students and faculty for their openness and flexibility as we have worked through this update together.

My message this week is centered on report cards and grades. As you know, the Middle School delayed issuing report cards to offer a two-week academic grace period at the end of the first trimester. Our faculty members are completing the process of updating gradebooks for the opening trimester, and our posted report cards will reflect all makeup work completed during the grace period. I also want to remind you that grades for elective and PE/athletics classes will be displayed as Pass or Fail this year. Thus, your child's report card will show letter grades for five academic classes and a "P" or "F" in both elective and PE/athletics classes.

As we fully turn the page to grading in the second trimester, it is important to remember that Middle School grades are cumulative this year. In other words, our trimesters are demarcation points in time, not stopping points for grades. This means that a student's grade at any point in time offers feedback on their performance to that point in the school year. If students' first-trimester grades are not in line with their goals, they have an opportunity to improve their average throughout the second and third trimesters.

Because Middle School transcripts only display final averages, students can (and should) focus on their performance in each unit of study rather than worrying about what numerical grade they need to earn to balance out an average from a previous trimester. Constant improvements in performance will result in upward grade trends that are predictable and easy to understand for students of all ages.

In order for our cumulative grading to be reflected for you and your child, Trimester 2 gradebooks will include additional assignments titled, "Tri 1 Engagement," "Tri 1 Minor Assessment," and "Tri 1 Major Assessment." These assignments are placeholders for students' category averages from the first trimester. For example, you might see a score of 850 points earned/900 points possible in "Tri 1 Minor Assessment." Minor assessments completed in the second trimester will then add to these totals. Our team will be working hard to update these grades this week, but the process may take us more than a few days to complete.

If you have questions about your child's grades or report card, please reach out to your advisor or teacher. If you encounter a question or issue that cannot be resolved with your advisor, please contact Dr. Jared Staller or me and we will be happy to help you.

Best regards,

Chris Bertha, MA
Head of Middle School

2020-21 Middle School Outreach

Middle School students are encouraged to serve their communities outside of school. St. Francis tracks students' service records and awards credit in terms of hours of service completed (service hours). As people for others, Middle School students are asked to take the initiative in discerning a need, choosing an activity to address the need, and arranging and following through on their response.

RECOGNITION OF SERVICE HOURS

St. Francis Episcopal School recognizes and celebrates students who give of their time and energy to serve others. Students who complete 25 or 50 hours of service during this school term will receive a certificate recognizing their effort. In addition, one graduating eighth-grade student is recognized for exemplifying and modeling a life of service and for being a "person for others."

'WITH DISTINCTION' REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

Students completing the required number of service hours during each of their years in Middle School receive a "With Distinction" designation on their eighth-grade diploma.

In response to COVID-19, we have adjusted our service milestone hours for the 2020–21 school year. Service hour requirements for "distinction" are as follows:

- Fifth Grade: 5 hours
- Sixth Grade: 5 hours
- Seventh Grade: 10 hours
- Eighth Grade: 15 hours

Service hours may be earned and will be recognized by the school under the following guidelines:

- Students submit hours for approval to the chaplain or Middle School office manager by designated deadlines during the year. Approval of hours is at the discretion of Fr. Wismer. Fostering animals can receive a maximum of two hours per week.
- Hours must be submitted via the 2020–21 Community Service Hours form.
- Students who are new to St. Francis in sixth, seventh, or eighth grade may graduate "With Distinction" as long as they earn the required number of service hours for each grade level they complete at St. Francis.
- Service hours are restricted to eight hours per day. Students submitting more than 10 hours for one project may be asked to provide a day-by-day list of what was accomplished on each day and how many hours were worked each day.
- Athletic team managers will be credited a percentage of their actual time spent with the team (maximum 20 hours).

Please contact Fr. Wismer or Leigh Williams if you ever have any questions about Middle School outreach/community service.

MS Advent Bible Study

Fr. Wismer and Rev. Heinemann are excited to offer a Bible study to our Middle School students during the Advent season. Students will receive an invitation e-mail with all the details. For more information, contact Rev. Heinemann.

A Note About Temporary Remote Attendance

If your student needs to log in remotely for a day, please notify your student's advisor and the Middle School Office.

- With most of our students on campus, not all of our classes are automatically set up for Zoom lessons. An e-mail will let teachers know to expect a remote learner.
- Students attending remotely for a day or two are counted present, so please do not submit an attendance update in Veracross, as it will mark them as absent.
- Faculty members are not expected to provide class materials that were prepared for in-person learners if a student is only remote for one or two days.
- If a student is remote for more than two days, please contact Piney Point Campus Nurse Nicki Newell regarding the return-to-campus procedure.

From the Interim Division Head

Parenting is hard on a good day—or in a good year. Nothing this year has been easy, but I think it's been especially difficult for parents of teenagers. There is fatigue involved in reinforcing some of the child-rearing practices that may have been well-established and understood by children pre-COVID, but which now may require constant reminders.

Things may look different in your home now. Has there been a change in how much flexibility you allow with your house rules? Have you had to readjust a consistent bedtime now that we've been back on campus during regular school hours? Are there challenges or resistance to finishing homework, limiting the use of devices, or meeting deadlines? Some of these are even challenges for adults now.

When everything seems more taxing and requires more energy, it may feel easier to let things slide. In a recent NYT Parenting article, “Am I Too Easy on My Kid? The Pandemic Makes Enforcing Rules So Much Harder.” Emily Flake reflects on her own challenges with being consistent. What Flake calls “quarantine permissiveness” is easy to understand. With a finite amount of energy and resilience ourselves, the path of least resistance may seem harmless.

While I would always encourage families to be flexible and to be open to making occasional exceptions, I would also recommend staying the course as much as possible. I know that, when my own kids were still at home, consistency was really important in my family. It could be exhausting, though, and there were times when I wondered if what I was choosing to set as a priority for our family was what really mattered. What I did find was that our family was more in harmony when we stayed in sync and focused on consistency.

Now that my children are adults, I am reassured that the values that were important to our family were worth the time and energy spent in reinforcing them. In a time when there is so much change and uncertainty, it's especially comforting and reassuring for children to know that their family is a constant, and that the house rules still matter.

I have tremendous respect for you as you support your teenagers through a time period without a parenting manual. Please reach out to us if we can help you in your parenting journey.

Take good care,

Amy Whitley, MA
Interim Head of Upper School
